Bellcoff seeks settlement of contract dispute

By Valerie Eviden

Staff writer

Madison Mayor John Bellcoff says it's time to settle the differences of the city's negotiations with Teamsters union employees in the Street Department.

"This is an unfortunate matter that has to be resolved," the mayor said Wednesday.

"What I want is to get this thing resolved in a fair and orderly manner. We don't want to hurt anybody, but we do want to get back to the business of providing service to the residents of our community."

The union last month sent the city a letter of intent to strike, a legal requirement prior to actually going on strike.

After a lengthy executive session during Tuesday's regular meeting of the Madison City Council, the council voted to send a clarifying letter to those concerned — Teamster Assistant Business Agent Steve McGinness and all city employees represented by Teamsters Local 525 with copies to all aldermen, the federal mediator and the city negotiator.

The letter gives the union 10 days to respond or face withdrawal of the city's offer.

The letter will outline the council's final offer made last month to the union in an attempt to resolve negotiations with Local 525 members in Madison's city street, alarm, playground and recreation departments.

Some apparent dissension among council members on wording in the letter was reflected in a 5-to-3 approval vote of the motion. Discussions in executive session are not open to the public and only actions taken when council members reconvene in open session can be reported.

Fourth Ward Alderman Norris Horton made the motion to send the letter, seconded by 1st Ward Alderman Andy Economy.

Voting for the measure were Horton, Economy, 1st Ward Alderman George Allesch, 2nd Ward Alderman John Hamm and 3rd Ward Alderman Charles Rickett.

Voting against sending the letter were 2nd Ward Alderman Jim Caffrey and 4th Ward Alderman John Hamm and Michael Vrabel.

"It has come to the attention of the finance committee and members of the council there has not been proper communication on some of our discussions and proposals to the employees of the street department," Bellcoff said, explaining the action.

"Several (employees) didn't seem to know what our (city) proposal contained," he added.

"The only reason we are able to offer the (hourly) increase is the difference in savings between the cost of city insurance and the Teamsters insurance," the mayor said. The employees

Madison considers limiting access to housing projects

By Valerie Eviden

Staff writer

Efforts to improve security at the Garesche and Grenzer public housing projects in Madison may result in the closing of certain entrances that provide easy access to the property by non-residents.

At Tuesday night's meeting of the Madison City Council, Mayor John Bellcoff and the proposal was discussed when he and Police Chief Charles Bridick met Oct. 3 with Paul Schuler, executive director of the Madison County Housing Authority.

Two new policies affecting public housing were adopted Oct. 3 by the County Housing Authority's Board of Commissioners.

Two additional policies in the process of being formulated by the housing authority committee would require parking stickers for residents and photo identification cards for tenants, Bellcoff reported to the council.

The resolutions already adopted establish a "no trespassing" policy and prohibit public consumption of alcohol or carrying open containers of alcohol in public areas of the housing properties.

Public consumption of alcohol or carrying open containers of alcohol in public areas, including parking lots, parks, playgrounds, yards and common areas, may result in eviction or prosecution.

The new policies were taken in response to "an increase in the volume of crime, drug trafficking, vandalism and physical assaults on its properties," the housing authority resolutions state.

patrols in the housing projects," Bellcoff said Wednesday.

"They are asking us to pass an ordinance prohibiting parking on the north and south sides of Collingsville Avenue and to close Ewing Street as a through street at Collingsville Avenue," the mayor said.

"Blocking off Ewing would help by eliminating a lot of that through traffic," he added.

"We feel that (closing Ewing), in conjunction with the enforcement of the authority's new policies, will help to eliminate a number of the problems we are experiencing at these sites," Schuler said.

Judge upholds officer's dismissal

By Bob Slaten
Staff writer

A Madison County Circuit Court judge has ruled that the Granite City Board of Fire and Police Commissioners acted correctly in terminating the employment of a police officer when he failed to show up for work one day.

"Although the incident of Aug. 11, 1990, standing alone would not be enough to warrant discharge, the Court concludes that it was enough to warrant a discharge taking into account all the matters contained in (Officer Jerry Duncan's) written disciplinary record with the Granite City Police Department," Judge Lola Maddox ruled Oct. 7.

Duncan can appeal the decision to the Fifth Appellate District Court within 30 days. His attorney, Don Knight, of Belleville, said he has passed the decision along to Duncan, and Duncan is currently weighing his options.

Police Chief Don Knight said, "It is unfortunate any time a man loses his job, but we have rules and regulations we have to go by."

Maddox ruled that then-commissioners Edward "Dewey" Melton, Linda Irwin and Leland Aebuhl "had before (them) substantial evidence upon which they could determine that cause existed for the discharge of (Duncan) and that his continued employment would be detrimental to the discipline and efficiency of the Police Department."

The Board of Fire and Police Commissioners had ruled Oct. 29, 1990, to terminate Duncan's employment following an Oct. 22 hearing that was closed to the public.

Duncan was found guilty of official misconduct for failing to respond to roll call or to provide a reasonable excuse for his absence.

Tarpooff urging cooperation

By Bob Slaten
Staff writer

In what is apparently a new-found spirit of cooperation, two officials of the U.S. EPA/NL/Taracorp cleanup project have agreed to help one another in the investigation into the level of lead contamination in the 55-block area designated by the EPA for cleanup.

Alderman Craig Tarpooff, chairman of the Citizen Advisory Committee appointed to advise the city with regard to the project, told the Granite City City Council Tuesday that he is encouraging owners to grant the U.S. EPA access to their property for soil sampling. But Tarpooff was quick to note that giving the EPA access to the property in any way means he agrees with the scope and intent of the cleanup as spelled out by the U.S. EPA in its Record of Decision.

In exchange for cooperation by property owners, Brad Bradley, remedial project manager for the NL/Taracorp site, has promised Madison and Granite City the right to monitor sampling procedures and provide the cities with split samples of their choice.

The U.S. EPA's $25 million cleanup plan has long been the subject of attack by local officials and NL Industries who claim the EPA's plan lacks a sound scientific basis.

Included in the cleanup plan is the removal of all residential soil in the area with a lead level of 500 parts per million or higher. NL Industries (see TARPOFF, Page 6A)

Dispatcher pleads guilty in jail death

A Madison police dispatcher pleaded guilty Tuesday to an official misconduct charge stemming from the death of an inmate who hanged himself in a jail cell.

Dennis Mize, 37, of Madison, was charged Aug. 28, a week after a coroner's inquest into the death of Stephen Hicks, 34, of Meadowbrook. Hicks was found dead in a Madison jail cell shortly after 4 a.m. Aug. 3.

During that inquest, Lt. Paul Bargiel of the Madison police testified that the department's policy is to check prisoners at least once an hour as required by law. Hicks had been a prisoner in the next cell, however, had not been checked on for more than three hours, Bargiel said.

According to a coroner's report, Hicks had used a strip of blanket from the cell's bed to make a noose and then tied it to a metal support bar about 7 feet, 2 inches in the cell.

Hicks had been arrested in Cottage Hills on a warrant for failure to appear on a disorderly conduct charge filed by Madison police.

Mize was charged with the charge this week. He entered a plea before Circuit Judge Charles V. Romani Jr. Romani ordered that a pre-sentencing investigation be done by the Department of Court and Probation Services before sentencing. No date was set.

A Granite City man was sentenced to 30 months in a state prison on an aggravated battery charge.

Daryl Teller, 41, of the 2100 block of Cleveland, was charged July 1 with aggravated battery and criminal sexual assault. In a June 30 incident he (See GUILTY, Page 6A)

County felony cases have already surpassed last year's

What Madison County's chief prosecutor calls aggressive treatment of crime, the county's chief public defender calls lax screening of cases.

The state's attorney's office recently surpassed last year's record-setting number of people charged with felonies. As of Tuesday, more than 1,321 cases have been filed, compared with 1,321 filed in 1990.

"We not only have a record of cases filed, but cases disposed of," State's Attorney William Haine said. "It's been high on the system, but the police seem happy with it."

Public Defender John Rekowski said the number partially reflect prosecutors charging people in marginal cases.

"I think the state's attorney office is not screening cases as carefully as it used to," Rekowski said. "There are more marginal cases getting into the system."

"If things continue the way they are, we'll be looking for some help in the office."

The increase has put more criminals off the streets, Haine said, but has also burdened the county's court system and probation department as well as Rekowski's office.

The jail housed 204 people one day last week — the most ever held in the county's history. Haine said. Food, medical and electrical bills directly related to the number of prisoners are projected to Sheriff Bob Churchich's $4.37 million budget between $52,000 and $80,000 into the system.

"I have swelled the system," Haine said. "All I can do is point to the sheriff's budget."

To dispose of pending cases, Chief Judge Paul Riley assigned every available judge to criminal cases for one-week stretches earlier this year.

Probation sentences increased at the Probation Department, which recently lost seven employees due to state budget cuts.

However, aggressive prosecution has its rewards, Haine said.

About 400 people another record, were sent to prison for felonies so far this year about 300 have gone to prison, he said. Before 1988, sentences for murder convictions ranged from 15 to 20 years; now the average is about 14 years, Haine said.

"That's kind of a ghoulish figure," Haine said. "The system is working as it should. It's getting out of the streets."

Rekowski countered that the record numbers of felony charges and prison sentences are not a long-term solution to crime.

"Crime is a symptom of the root problem of drug abuse, unemployment," he said. "We need to go back to addressing the problems and stop using the Band-Aid method."

News in review

News in review provides a summary of some of the past week's stories. This column is designed for out-of-town readers who do not receive the Sunday and Wednesday Press-Record/Journals.

Some mobile home owners in Granite City believe the city is discriminating against them. More than 75 came to a Plan Commission hearing last week at which a proposed amendment to the city's zoning ordinance was to be discussed. The mobile home owners say that they are often restricted from repairing or replacing their homes when the homes become old and dilapidated — in direct contrast to how owners of other homes are treated. The amendment, which would allow owners of non-conforming mobile homes to replace their home, was returned to the City Council's Zoning Committee for clarification.

Granite City is one of three cities in the nation chosen to receive a special grant from the U.S. Department of Justice to help fight illegal drugs and drug sales. The $90,000 grant was received as a result of a joint effort of police and school officials.

Mayor Von Dee Cruse says city residents should be concerned about a plan to realign state representative districts because it would dilute the area's power in the Legislature. Cruse criticized the plan that was approved by the Republican majority of the Legislative Redistricting Commission, which would split the city into three legislative districts. Rep. Sam Wolf now represents the entire city.

Granite City officials are concerned that the Illinois Tax Increment Association doesn't really have the city's interests at heart. It is a lobbying organization which is supposed to represent the interests of its member municipalities to the state Legislature.

"ITIA is ... controlled by a small number of cities that are large recipients of tax dollars," Alan Orthals, the city's director of economic development, said Monday after attending the ITIA convention in Chicago last week. He said those same cities are "less than exemplary" in administering their TIF districts "in the spirit of the law."

A proposed change in tuition at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will cost some students more and others less. The SIU Board of Trustees will discuss the change at the Nov. 14 meeting in Carbondale.

Some prisoners at the Madison County Jail got out of their cells last week — for a one-way ride to state prisons. About 19 inmates at the jail were transferred Thursday to state prisons following a rash of guilty pleas to Madison County felony crimes.

The promise of a $60 million windfall to one lucky winner made Lotto the hot ticket throughout the state this week. After the mouth-watering $47 million prize in Saturday's drawing went unclaimed, Illinois Lottery spokesman Michael Lang said Monday that the jackpot for Wednesday's drawing had already climbed to $60 million — the third highest in the history of the state lottery.

Luke 12:31 . . . "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and all these other things shall be added unto you."

Many people today are worried about the economy. They are concerned about their jobs and what they will do about tomorrow. It is natural to be concerned about what we could be concerned about. The world around us is in turmoil. It would be natural for us to feel worse. We wonder where it will all end. Yet, if you a child of God, born again through His spirit, you need not worry. The Bible teaches us that if we put our spiritual welfare first, we will be concerned about God in all things. He will take care of everything else for us. We can rest assured that God will take care of all that is pleasing to God. When we live the life that is pleasing to God, we can rest assured that God will take care of us. He knows what you have need of.

Charges against driver

Leonard L. "Red" Jarman, 24, of the 3000 block of Sinclair Street was arrested at 7:40 p.m. Oct. 9 and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, driving while his license is revoked, failure to give information and two counts of leaving the scene of an accident with vehicle damaged.

Officers searching for an alleged hit and run driver located Jarman in a yellow 1984 Ford cargo van fitting the description of the suspect vehicle given by a victim.

Jarman is alleged to have struck a vehicle in front of a house in the 2300 block of Delfair and another vehicle at 23rd Street and Grant Avenue.

While officers searched for the yellow van, another call was received at the police station reporting a yellow cargo van running vehicles off the road on 25th Street.

According to a police report, Jarman, 24, and another man identified Jarman, after he was apprehended, as the one who hit his car.

Prisoners released under the program would be closely monitored by release officers. In some cases, electronic monitoring might be used.

Committee member Alan Dunstan, D-Troy, urged other members to back the program for at least one year test.

"I think the program will end up saving us more money than it costs," he said. "I don't think it's a gamble."

The committee's budget recommendation will be presented to the County Board for final action.

The pretrial release program was recommended by a committee of county officials who have been examining ways to reduce jail overcrowding and its associated costs.

The County Board's Finance Committee tentatively decided Tuesday to allocate $177,900 to start the program during fiscal 1992, which begins Dec. 1, 1991.

Budget negotiators said they hope to reduce the cost of operating the county jail by releasing at most 50 inmates while they await trial.

tee of county officials who have been examining ways to reduce jail overcrowding and its associated costs.

The Illinois Legislature authorized pretrial release programs in 1989, but the state has had only enough money to support programs in a few counties. No state money is available for the proposed Madison County program.

Committee members said they hope to finance the program with part of the $500,000 to $700,000 in additional revenues expected from higher circuit court fees next year.

Funding would support a supervisor, three officers and a secretary, as well as training, travel, office and equipment expenses. The program would be under the supervision of the county's probation department.

Dunstan said the program might allow rehiring four of the seven probation officers laid off earlier this year because of cuts in state funding.

County Director of Administration James Monday warned that the pretrial release program would not ease the workload of probation officers.

SIUE employees fight insurance hike

A state-level oversight has SIUE employees fighting back.

Ten union bargaining units, including the AFSCME, the Illinois Federation of State County and Municipal Employees, local and the SIUE Professional Staff Education Association, are fighting an increase in insurance costs and a decrease in coverage.

"They didn't get any raise and now they are passing on the increase to us. They bypassed the university paying the extra," SIUE AFSCME representative Paul Ogg said.

The new insurance coverage, which includes about 40,000 university workers statewide, was negotiated for employees of state agencies by AFSCME.

The insurance provided concessions in retirement benefits that increased agency employees' take-home pay by about 4 percent.

University employees are not considered state agency employees, so they have not seen an increase in their take-home pay.

The insurance package was compiled by the state's Central Management System and offered to the university. They automatically passed down the cost," Ogg said.

But Interim Chancellor James Brown, whose insurance costs were also increased, said the insurance package was something the university system got stuck with.

"The university was not involved in the negotiations to decide what the state employees got but was forced to accept it. The health insurance went up for our employees, but the other concessions were not so generous," Brown said.

The amount paid for health insurance is determined by salary.

The increases range from about $2 to $30 a paycheck. The deductible has also been increased from $100 to $150 for an individual.

The bargaining units are planning to try to force the university to pay the increases, Ogg said.

"We are sending a resolution and are planning to hit the legislature hard and heavy," Ogg said.

Faculty members from the state universities are also meeting to discuss action.

The day will conclude with a 3 p.m. worship program and the distribution of the congregations library. It will be dedicated in honor of Elroy Paschad Sr., a former elder of the church whose personal library was dedicated to the church upon his death in 1976.

Pontoon Beach Church is one of the oldest Christian churches in the area and is at 4039 Pontoon Road. Dale Peery is the Senior Minister.

Curbside recycling program to be tried

By Valerie Evenden

Staff writer

The Village Board of Trustees has voted to allow a free curbside recycling test program to start soon in Pontoon Beach.

The test program will get under way as soon as a date can be set by the operator of P.T. Recycling, Phillip I. Thebeau Sr.

Thebeau, who attended the Oct. 8 Village Board meeting, said flers describing the service and specifying what items can be collected will be distributed to the public this weekend.

The curbside collection program in the village probably will start Friday, Oct. 25, Thebeau said this week.

All expenses connected to the project are to be absorbed by the company, with no cost to the community or the participating residents, Thebeau said.

The operator said that separate containers for each type of recyclable material are not necessary. All material may be placed in a single container, he said.

The firm will be collecting all recyclable waste one day each week for a period of four to six weeks. The pickups will take place on all regular pickup days.

Larger appliances are to be picked up on request or on the last Tuesday of the month.

No garbage — wet or dry — will be picked up, Thebeau said.

Curbside pickups will include all recyclable items, including: all plastics, cans (aluminum and other metals), glass, paper, cardboard and more.

The curbside recycling program now operating in Mitchell and areas of Chouteau Township "is working out pretty good," Thebeau said this week.

Lashing out at the lobby

Lobbyists are always getting bad publicity for the hand they have in shaping legislation. A political action group cannot make a decision without someone inferring that a payback is promised.

Those accusations generally come from opponents or public interest groups. A member of a lobby group would never have bad things to say about someone it pays.

But Granite City officials offered a new twist, saying the Illinois Tax Increment Association, a lobby group representing the city, doesn't have the city's interest at heart.

Alderman Jim Miller said Monday the city will "probably not pay ITIA dues" next year and no longer belong to the ITIA. Miller reconsidered that stand and said the lobby group is an important resource for information and the city may continue its membership.

After returning from an ITIA convention in Chicago last week, Alan Orthals, city director of economic development, had harsh words for the lobby group and neighboring cities that are also members of ITIA.

The tilt is over the establishment of Tax Increment Financing districts. The financing plan was approved by state legislators in 1986 to provide a tax incentive to developers to resurrect areas that would otherwise go undeveloped. But that doesn't always appear to be the case. Orthals said the city of Collinsville is using TIF district funds to construct a water tower in the city. Belleville, he said, has seven TIF districts.

Though an argument can be made that the water tower could improve economic opportunities, it hardly seems like much of a sales tax producer for the TIF district.

Economic development is important, and the establishment of TIF districts to encourage that prosperity is a plan to be applauded. But of the 103 cities that draw from the TIF pie, Orthals said "not too many" would be viewed by the government as legitimate. If the government could see illegitimacy, how would the taxpayers view the situation?

Now ITIA wants more. At its convention, ITIA proposed that a city with more than one TIF district could pool its funds rather than requiring that money generated by each TIF district be spent only in that district.

That action would be further abuse of an already questionable system. The program would continue to take state funds that could be available for programs the state has had to trim in these tight financial times.

Cities need to follow the lead set by East Peoria, which withdrew from the program after its redevelopment project had been completed. But that is not likely as the lobby group tries to find other ways for its member cities to get a portion of the $18 million pool.

Or cities might set an example like Granite City and consider dropping their membership in the ITIA. Granite City could expect support from everyone except those who love the lobby groups.

Scarlett's sequel? Who gives a darn?

(Opinion by Carol Clarkin, who writes a regular opinion column for the Westerville Journal.)

Opinion by Carol Clarkin: Scarlett used to exclaim, back in her flirtatious girlhood days.

Soon the long-awaited sequel to "Gone With the Wind" will arrive at your neighborhood bookseller. Long awaited by some, but not by me.

It's safe to predict, of course, that the book will quickly hit the best-seller lists, probably leading the list.

When the hardback sales have been milked well high and dry, we'll expect the paperback shelves in the grocery and drugstore to be packed with less expensive editions.

After all, isn't that the chief reason for a sequel even being written? And rotten dirty shame it is, in my less than humble opinion.

Just a few years ago, the golden anniversary of the original movie was observed with much hoopla in Atlanta. At the time, I not only recalled the first time I saw the movie, I remembered the time when I was most moved by it, too.

Historical novels were enjoying great success at the time. Popular authors were folks like Walter Edmonds, Stark Young, Hervey Allen — their books, "Drums Along the Mohawk," "So Red The Rose," and "Anthony Adverse," were the best-sellers of the late 30s.

In fact, with "Anthony Adverse" it became clear that the mother lode of publishing lay not only in fictionalizing history but in adding a little judiciously chosen sexual situations.

GWTW beat the others all hollow. We could hardly wait to get our hot little teen-age hands on it. And once we did, we couldn't put it down. We read it late into the night, till our eyelids gummied shut. We carried it to the john when mother nature called.

And when Scarlett had at last decided to "think about it tomorrow," we sighed a deep, satisfied sigh — and spent the following year debating with our girl friends the earthshaking question of who would be the perfect Rhett Butler.

At least among my cronies, there was never any doubt about who would be the perfect Rhett Butler — could there be ANYONE but Gable? Scarlett was something else and we all had our favorites (mine was Tallulah Bankhead), but once the movie was released we all knew the cast was absolutely perfect.

As high school seniors, we LIVED that movie. But when it was done, it was done, in our opinions. We didn't expect a sequel; we didn't even particularly want a sequel.

Perhaps, if Margaret Mitchell herself had chosen, in the years left to her, to have written one, it might have been different. Her one and only book may have been great literature, but it surely was a great spellbinder.

Perhaps, as with Harper Lee's superb "To Kill a Mockingbird," Mitchell was a one-book author and said everything she wanted or could say in one book.

But I do hate the thought of a lesser talent telling me what happened after ... to Scarlett OR Rhett. I had been under the impression that, except for Olivia De Havilland (Melanie) and Buttery McQueen (Prissy), all of the original movie cast members were dead.

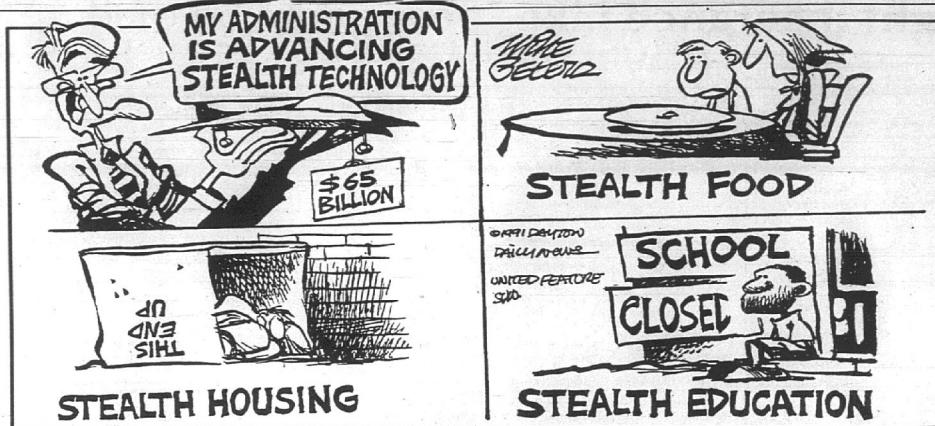

Not so, last week I read some remarks made by Fred Crane, the actor who played Brent Tarleton (one of the two red-headed twins who courted Scarlett on the veranda at Tara).

Mr. Crane, now in his 70s, said he had no intention of reading the sequel. He opined that he suspected it would do "less for me than 25-cent romance novels" after reading a few excerpts from the manuscript. He can bet that it will do less for me, too.

Better to imagine what we want to about Scarlett's future after Rhett's departure. Perhaps she won him back. Or she could have found yet another love, or another. She might have ended up as one of Belle Watling's "girls," or in a convent.

... God forbid, until the sixth generation.

Just leave Katie Scarlett alone! Perish the thought that someday we might read of — or watch on the silver screen — the great-great-granddaughter of Scarlett O'Hara, a "yuppy" in an Atlanta suburb.

Poor getting poorer, more numerous

(The following is a regular column by Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois.)

The United States, unfortunately, has a clientelist over Japan, Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Denmark, Norway, Sweden and several other countries in one category: the percentage of our children who live in poverty.

None of these nations, even close to us, and the figures are getting worse, as the U.S. Census Bureau announced the other day.

More than one out of five (21.4 percent) young people in our nation under the age of 15 live in poverty.

At the total population, the figure is 13.5 percent, and 13.7 percent in Illinois.

The Census Bureau reported that children in the United States make up half of the nation's poor. Nearly 40 percent of the nation's poor are children; 11 percent are elderly.

The poverty level varies according to the size of a family, but for a family of four, for example, the poverty level for 1990 was $13,359.

For children under the age of six, the figure is almost one out of four living in poverty, 23.6 percent.

Two-thirds are white.

One-third of all children in the United States at some point will be on welfare before they reach the age of 18.

Those are only statistics. They are a strong indication of poverty, but a flawed one of poverty that is neglecting our future.

Some semi-sophisticated commentators enjoyed making fun of the "war on poverty" that the administration of President Lyndon Johnson. These skeptics pointed to all the poverty that remained.

They were right about the poverty that remained, but during that period poverty declined, and the middle class grew. Now poverty is rising and the middle class is shrinking.

Our priorities are seriously distorted, both in what we spend money for, and from whom we collect it. Both are causing damage to our nation.

Counting all payroll taxes, the percentage of income paid as federal taxes by the wealthiest fifth of the nation declined 5 percent from 1960 to 1980, while the percentage of income paid in federal taxes by the poorest fifth of Americans rose by 15 percent, and rose for middle-income Americans also.

I voted against both bills that caused that in 1981 and 1986.

What we are doing is done by us? This is a great choice.

Some semi-sophisticated commentators enjoyed making fun of the relationship of poverty and lack of educational attainment is clear.

Some are exceptions, but that's what's there: exceptions.

You may have read the stories about the decline in college entrance scores, known generally as the SAT scores; 1.8 million students took the test last year.

Why is there such a pattern?

Homes with little income cannot buy books and magazines, cannot buy many things that make a difference in cultural enrichment.

Children in low-income homes may not eat as well and some are not even fed.

While problems of drugs and alcohol can afflict any income level, they are more prevalent with lower income, tragically, particularly among the employed. The highest rates of drug and alcohol consumption are among the unemployed.

When we abandon programs that permit a growing number of Americans to become part of the middle class, we are not only harming political stability, we are eating away at the base for our country.

Cong. Ray Thornton of Arkansas suggests we need a Marshall Plan to rebuild America.

If it is done on a pay-as-you-go basis, he is absolutely correct. It could bring us nation in a host of ways. But now we're drifting in the wrong direction.

Alcohol a form of drug abuse

TO THE EDITOR:

Why is everyone so down on drug dealers and not on tavern owners?

The man I used to know very well has been an alcoholic for over six years now. His family has lost their home and everything else that he had because he is now more than willing to help their "customers."

This man's wife and daughter are living with her parents while he is living in a bachelor apartment, trying to get a job.

Tavern owners and workers in Mitchell, Granite City, Pontoon Beach, Lincoln Place and Madison know this man by name. Most of them have seen a couple of alcohol clients. But do they discourage his drinking?

No! They encourage his addiction as much as possible. They know he's dependent on alcohol just like they do.

Some taverns "help" by letting him run a bar bill, which is against the law.

Some tavern owners themselves even loan him money to drink until the next paydays.

These tavern owners know when a man sits in their bar every night and spends at least $50 each night that there can't be any bill or food money left at the end of the week.

They don't care if this drunk goes home and beats his wife or shoots someone, which this man has done both of while drinking.

They don't care what the family these drunks go through.

When she says the tavern owners from the bar phone, she calls them back to tell the tavern owner or bartender to quit serving this person because he is well past being Felipe.

When she says the tavern is going to be responsible for this drunk's actions from this point, instead of stopping the alcohol flow to the drunk, they threaten to have the speed increased, harassment. Tavern owner "alcohol dealers" and drunks can do what they want. What I would like to know is where are the laws to protect these people getting hurt by alcoholics?

The bars are helping them to continue being alcoholics.

Sure, you can file for a divorce and get them off the alcohol for abandoning them and hurt your kids all in the process.

I have no political agenda so to some. I apologize to those who are offended by my following statement.

I feel that a lot of people who resist the change simply do not want to change a longtime habit because they are just plain lazy and too accustomed to adjusting to it.

I like curbside garbage pickup. For the first time in 14 years, the alley behind my home is clean.

The people across the alley no longer put their trash out on the weekend so that the neighborhood dogs scatter it. I still take my trash out every Wednesday morning except that I now go outside. And I am sure that I am certainly not too lazy to pick up the empty containers in the evening.

The handbill I found on my door is to make a case for alley pickup. The idea that slow garbage trucks block traffic is ludicrous. This is not Tri City Speedway. If the police, a fire truck or ambulance comes along you may be assured, they will go by.

The idea that the city inspector was not giving citations for trashing the alleys could be due to the fact that (no one) both agreed to complain until now.

A spokesperson for the Citizens Committee attacked Mayor Cruse and referred to him as a dictator. Cruse has shown insight and strength of character in this emotional issue.

My taxes also pay the salaries of our city officials and, although I don't always agree with their decisions, they are earning both my respect and tax money by representing my views and probably the views of many neighbors who have never heard of the East Granite Citizens Committee.

Curbside garbage pickup is here and it may as well stay.

In two years, the laws of Illinois will mandate curbside recycling of solid waste.

Our city officials will not "dictate" where our trash is picked up, that's what.

The Citizens Committee has declared that this is not a bad issue but, in two years, the state will kill it.

So, Citizens Committee, get used to it and get used to what is going on in state legislature. Put your efforts to better use to make curbside pickup work for us.

Make our better cleaner community in which we live. DAVE CROCKARELL Granite City

Favors clean alleys, city

TO THE EDITOR:

I am responding to a handbill which I found on my front door regarding curbside pickup.

East Granite City Citizens Committee? Who are these people who purport to represent me and the people in my neighborhood?

I was not asked to sign any petition nor asked if I approved of curbside garbage pickup. I am by no means humiliated by four hours of garbage in front of my house each week.

Some of this group are short-sighted, want-to-be politicians who are attempting to capitalize upon the emotions of uninformed citizens and are spreading misinformation to further their own political agendas.

I question whether their interest in this issue is sincerely in the best long-term interest of the community, or to gain recognition for political gain. I think that they think of us, their potential constituents, as ignorant or unable to see both sides of the issue.

There are helping them to continue being alcoholics.

Sure, you can file for a divorce and get them off the alcohol for abandoning them and hurt your kids all in the process.

I have no political agenda so

Big Band tea dance Sunday

Musical numbers from Belleville Area College's "A Sentimental Journey," a 1940s-style tea dance, will be played from original Big Band arrangements on Sunday, Oct. 20, from 2 to 5 p.m.

The arrangements were part of more than 40 Big Band selections donated to the college in 1985 by Hershel Eitzenhefer of Belleville. Eitzenhefer, who died in 1988, was a drummer with the Charlie Val Band and several other Metro East groups.

Written for orchestration by 17-piece jazz bands, the arrangements include parts for saxophone, trumpet, trombone, piano, bass, guitar, drums and sheet for lead vocals, said Jerry Bolen, instrumental music instructor and director of the college Jazz Lab Band. Some songs also have string parts.

The dance, to be held in the Belleville Campus Varsity Gymnasium, 2500 Carlyle Road, will include selections from Glenn Miller, Duke Ellington, Les Brown, Tommy Dorsey and Artie Shaw.

Several professional musicians from the St. Louis area will be seated in lead chairs with the BAC Jazz Lab Band to provide the entertainment during the tea dance.

"We put together a package of about 40 Big Band selections that are the most requested numbers from dances and concert halls played in the area," said Bolen, who also is percussionist in the Muny and Fox Theater orchestras.

"The dance also will be a learning venture for the students, who will play along with professional musicians. It's like on-the-job training."

When Eitzenhefer donated the arrangements, they had been stored in a trunk for 10 years.

"I took a musical librarian and me about a year-and-a-half to sort through the papers and get them in order," said Bolen. "But we're glad to have them, it shows students exactly how the Big Band greats performed."

Tickets for the dance are $5 per person and may be purchased by calling the Office of College Activities at 230-0000, extension 205, or (toll-free) 1-800-BAC-5121, extension 205. MasterCard and Visa are accepted.

The tea dance is sponsored by BAC's Music Department and the Office of College Activities.

"For over a year, we have been fighting with the U.S. EPA over their chosen remedy to the lead contamination surrounding the 'NL/Taracoma' Superfund site," Tarpoff said. "We are still in negotiations with the agency to determine the best way to proceed."

The motion states that City Attorney Carl Nighohossian and labor legal counsel Vance Miller on behalf of the negotiating committee send a letter to Teamsters Business Agent Steve McGinnis and "the alarm, street, playground and recreation department employees represented by the union," clarifying the city's final offer — a wage increase of 1.5 percent for each of the three years of the contract, plus final negotiations on a drug/alcohol abuse program.

A date of 10 calendar days from receipt of the letter by the business agent to accept the final offer was included.

The motion also states: "Upon the failure to accept the final offer by the union, the city of Madison will withdraw the dispute and make a new offer as the negotiations committee deems appropriate."

"With a vacation schedule and the drug abuse program are to be worked out, but that's not the stumbling block; it's the money," Bellcoff said.

"They could strike us at any time," Bellcoff said Wednesday.

At 11:30 a.m. Sept. 30, Bellcoff said he received a letter from McGinnis dated Sept. 27, that stated, "Let this letter serve as official notice that Teamsters Local 525 is giving notice of intent to strike the city of Madison."

McGinnis told a reporter that he was unsure whether a walkout would occur, but that the letter had to be sent before the action could legally be considered.

At that time Bellcoff said the city will be prepared "to continue to provide, one way or another, the basic health service of garbage collection (trash pickup) by the street department until this unfortunate situation is resolved."

"None of the questions actually relate to as to whether police practice against (Duncan) or tend to establish any pattern to treat other police officers accused of similar misconduct differently than officer Duncan was treated," Madox said.

Regarding the discovery dispute, Madox ruled that "the failure of the city to disclose (an) investigative report, which was not presented into evidence, did not (make) (Duncan) a fair hearing."

"The same strict rules of evidence that apply in judicial proceedings do not apply in hearings before administrative agencies," Madox said in the order.

"Unless such failure to observe technical rules of evidence materially affects the outcome of a particular proceeding, such failure is not reason to set aside the ruling of the agency."

Duncan had been suspended for two weeks with pay following the filing of charges against him. His suspension from that point until his dismissal had been without pay.

Trojans depleted by academics on gridiron

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

The Madison Trojans are still looking for their first victory of the season.

But the odds aren't in their favor. At 0-6, the Trojans left Madison with just enough players to field a football team the last two weeks. While some teams are fighting the mid-season injury bug, the Trojans are having a brain drain.

Madison (0-6) has lost nearly half its squad, including some of its best players, to grades. First-year coach Marty Jiles only expects to have 15 players against the No.1-ranked team in the state in your division (Class 3A).

"It's tough to win when you don't have a team," Jiles said. "We've been competitive, but the most part, but not having any depth has killed us in the long haul. Our kids get tired and the opposition winds up rolling all over us."

That was the case at Breece Central on Sept. 27. The Trojans led the Cougars 20-18 with just six minutes to play before losing the game 28-20.

"That's a perfect example of what I'm saying," Jiles said. "We didn't have the numbers and the failure factor set in."

They didn't get any better the following week when Madison only had 13 players for the Dupo game. Jiles and assistant coach Al Vander Haar, concerned about the situation, approached the school board to see what their options were. They had considered possibly forgoing football, but the board overruled that motion.

"We were concerned about the welfare of our players," Jiles said. "Having only 13 players against the No.1-ranked team in the state in your division (Class 3A).

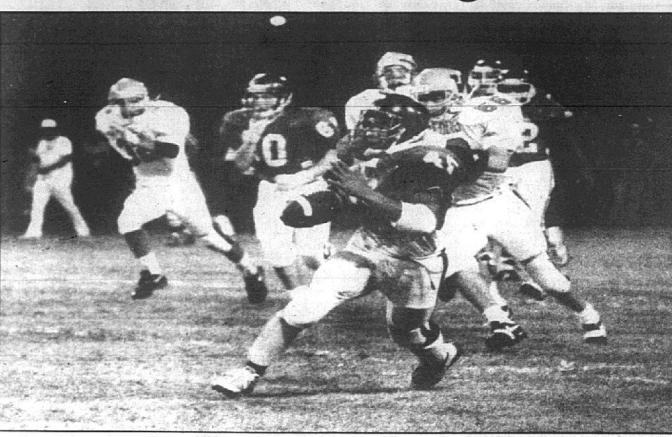

"We approached the board to see what our options were, but there weren't any options. They told us that we could not play on to field a team, so we were going to honor the contract."

Jiles holds District 12's tough academic policy at fault. While IHSA rules allow students who are failing one class to participate in extra-curricular activities, District 12 prohibits its students from failing any classes at all.

The policy, initiated in the fall semester of 1989, is replicated after the St. Louis Public School system. And the District plans on increasing its demands. Athletes will be required to have a 2.0 grade point average to participate in athletic events in fall.

"That policy is going to force our kids to look elsewhere," Jiles said. "The school board may not realize it, but these kids have other options. They'll go to other schools just like the city kids in St. Louis did. If you look at the statistics, the dropout rate over there increased under this rule.

Dunn low-key about record

By Scott Fitzgerald
Staff writer

The answer was vintage Ebbie Dunn.

"I don't think I'm the best coach," he said, "just the oldest."

Most have come to expect that attitude from the humble, 63-year-old soccer coach at St. Louis U. High, who became the winningest prep coach in the country on Saturday, when the Junior Billikens knocked off Granite City 1-0 in the semifinal round of the Tournament of Champions at the University.

Dunn now has 572 career victories, one more than Bob Horgan (571-93-46), who coached at CBC, Pattonville and Afton from 1955-68.

Ask Dunn why he lasted so long and he credits the wealth of talented SLUH players, the school's administration, and the good Lord for keeping him in excellent health for his 37 years at SLUH.

Ask those that played and worked with him, and the credit goes back to the man himself.

"The secret Ebbie commands from students, administrators and teachers is evident," said SLUH athletic director Dick Wehner. "I've learned a great deal just working with him."

SLUH's AD for the last seven years, Wehner is in the process of interviewing noted former SLUH athletes into a program for the school's 75th anniversary, which will be celebrated later this year. Many are about what Dunn and SLUH soccer meant to them.

Here's a sampling:

"Tim Twelmann, a former pro soccer player who was a member of SLUH in 1973, won the title squad: "After playing 10 years of professional soccer my fondest memories are still my days of playing at SLUH for Ebbie Dunn. His honest, straightforward coaching method demanded great respect."

"Pat McBride, a 1961 SLUH graduate and former coach of the St. Louis State team, who is now soccer coach at Forest Park Community College: "He (Ebbie) helped me not only as a player, but through him I gained a great appreciation for what it takes to be a good coach. As firm and tough as Mr. Dunn was always approachable."

One former player even came back home to work with him. That's Dan Coughlin, a former college coach at DePaul University who is in his second year as Dunn's assistant.

"I consider myself to be unbelievably lucky," said Coughlin, a graduate of Dunn's 1961 team. "Not only did I get to play for Ebbie, I now get to work with him."

Coughlin said he has always admired the way Dunn handles himself in dealing with situations. "When we cut a player, the kid is usually pretty upset. But Ebbie would spend an hour with him explaining why he got cut and what he needed to do to improve," Coughlin said. "He and my father are the only people I know who have always such high integrity as a consistent high level."

SLUH junior Damon Rensing, beginning his second year on the varsity, said Dunn has a special way of putting his players at ease.

"I was nervous when I came out as a sophomore last year," Rensing said. "But you soon forget that he's been there more than 33 years, because he's so personable."

Dunn, a graduate of CBC High School and Harris-Stowe Teachers College, began teaching at SLUH in 1955. He married Eva, his wife of 34 years, in 1958 and

Bogies plague Brewer at sectional

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

Granite City will have to wait another year for its first state qualifier in golf.

Senior Joe Brewer, the Warriors' only representative at Tuesday's Class AA Sectional, finished five strokes out of the running as he shot an 89. The cut-off score was 84. Only the top 12 finishers continue on to the state tournament. "I picked the wrong day to play badly," Brewer said. "I thought I had a chance to make it, but I made too many (7) double bogies. That's 14 strokes right there."

Brewer shot a 45 on the back nine at Sunset Hills Country Club and found that up with a 44 on the final nine.

"When Joe came out of the pack with a 45, he wasn't in a good frame of mind," Granite City coach Russ Chappell said. "It would have been nice if the high 30s on the last nine, he would have gone."

Last year, Brewer shot an 89 in miserable weather at the sectional at Alton Hills. This year, the weather didn't hamper him, but at times he was his own worst enemy.

PREVIEW '92

Featuring

The '92 Models From SOUTHERN Illinois CAR DEALERS

Ford goes into 1992 by offering lots of new choices

The 1992-model year marks the introduction of more new cars at Ford dealerships than during any similar period in recent history.

Major additions to Ford Division's product line for '92 include a redesigned Taurus lineup, two new four-door Escort sedans and a Crown Victoria Touring Sedan.

Taurus is one of the world's top selling family sedans and receives a major redesign in 1992, the greatest change since the car's introduction in December 1985. Built at Ford's Dearborn and Chicago assembly plants, the new Taurus has even higher production-quality standards than the 1991 model. Sleeker body design, more interior-framed interior and an optional passenger-side air-bag supplemental restraint system are only a few of many changes for '92.

Escorts are two new four-door sedans to its recently redesigned lineup for '92. The four-door LX and LX-E provide five-passenger seating, spacious trunks and many standard comfort features. The LX-E is the sportier model that has styled aluminum wheels, performance tires, a sport suspension and a 12-horsepower, 1.8-liter, twin-cam engine.

The new Ford Touring Sedan provides a top-of-the-line performance model for the Crown Victoria lineup. It offers buyers the trim, interior and comfort of a Crown Victoria with the performance of an over-cammed, 210-horsepower V-8 and a handling suspension.

The '92 Tempo receives a 3.0-liter V-6 engine and fresh styling for its sporty GLS model. A tighter suspension and a 140-horsepower engine make the '92 Tempo GLS a solid-performing front-wheel drive car.

The 1992 Ford Probe LX with a sport option will appeal to a wide range of buyers looking for luxury and performance in the sporty, sporty-car market. A new front-end treatment similar to the Thunderbird Super Coupe, will appear on the '92 Thunderbird LX and Sport models. Festiva offers a new sport option with unique tape-stripe designs and a rear roof-edge spoiler.

Following is a brief description of Ford Division's 1992-model car-new lineup:

Taurus The 1992 Taurus sedan has a virtually all-new body and numerous improvements and changes in mechanical components and interior appointments. Overall quality has been raised above the level of its predecessor in design, manufacturing and quality-control techniques.

The SHO version of the Taurus, which first appeared in 1989, also is significantly restyled to emphasize its performance-sedan character.

Every exterior panel of the 1992 Taurus is new, except the doors and roof. The exterior trim — including ornamentation, bumpers, rocker-panel moldings on L, GL and LX models and body cladding on the SHO — also is new.

The car's overall length has been increased by 3.8 inches, with an increase in trunk volume of 1.5 cubic feet. In addition, there are nine new exterior colors and numerous detail changes such as tinted outside rear-view mirrors, new wheel covers and new aluminum wheels.

The '92 Taurus interior features many changes including the addition of an optional passenger-side air-bag, a new "flow-oriented" instrument panel, more legible gauges and easy-to-reach controls, larger power-window switches that are illuminated for night usage and larger radio control buttons. New remote radio controls — memory, seek and volume — are incorporated in the instrument panel within easy reach of the driver.

The standard powertrain for the front-wheel-drive 1992 Taurus is L, GL and LX sedans and L and GL wagons is a 3.0-liter, 140-horsepower V-6 engine with sequential electronic fuel injection (SEFI) and a four-speed, automatic-overdrive transaxle. The 3.0-liter V-6 engine with SEFI is optional in sedans and standard on the LX wagon. The four-cylinder engine available in past Taurus models has been discontinued.

The Ford Taurus receives a major re-design in 1992 including optional passenger-side air bag and a sleeker body design.

The Taurus SHO is equipped with a 3.0-liter, 210-horsepower, dual-overhead camshaft, 24-valve V-6 engine and a five-speed manual transaxle. The feel and precision of the shifter have been improved by replacing the cable shift mechanism with a solid-rod system.

The Taurus SHO has been extensively redesigned to give it a more aggressive and distinctive look than its predecessor. It has standard color-keyed bodyside and rocker-panel moldings, flared mud flaps, a unique grille with integrated fog lamps, a special rear bumper and 16-inch aluminum wheels.

In addition to the Taurus SHO, there are three Taurus four-door sedan series: L, GL and LX. A four-door station wagon is available in all lines except the Taurus SHO.

Ford Escort

Two new four-door sedans join Escort's recently redesigned lineup of hatchback and wagon models.

The new four-door Escort LX and LX-E offer spacious trunks and room for five passengers. They come standard with new 4.6-liter, 190-horsepower, single-overhead cam, modular V-8 — an engine at the leading edge of automotive technology. The Touring Sedan is powered by a 210-horsepower version of the same V-8.

The car's functional technology includes speed-sensitive steering, four-wheel disc brakes, a rear driver's side air-bag. Anti-lock brakes and traction control come as standard equipment on the Touring Sedan and are optional on standard and LX Crown Victoria models. Additional options include a rear air-suspension and a passenger-side air-bag.

The Crown Victoria's interior includes an ergonomically designed instrument panel with gauges and controls that are easy to read and reach.

Ford Tempo For 1992 offers new V-6 performance models with exterior styling for the sporty GLS exterior refinements for the LX and GL and reduced NVH (noise, vibration and harshness) on all models.

New for '92 is a 140-horsepower, 4.0-liter V-6 engine with sequential electronic fuel injection (SEFI). Standard on 1992 LX and GL models, the V-6 adds a new performance dimension to the Tempo line.

The 1992 Tempos feature a new front end with a low cowled belt that provide a substantial glass area and excellent visibility. Power windows are available for the first time on all four-door, five-door and wagon models. Other features include flip-out quarter windows, on-board memory, remote-control outside mirror and an "A" pillar-mounted antenna.

Ford Crown Victoria

The Ford Crown Victoria, introduced in March of 1991, is a full-size, four-door family sedan that features aerodynamic styling, a new overhead-cam V-8 engine and a substantially revised suspension system. A new Touring Sedan model with a sport suspension and a 210 horsepower overhead-cam engine joins the current standard and LX models in the fall.

Performance and efficiency have been significantly improved in the 1992 Escort line, thanks to its new 4.6-liter, 190-horsepower, single-overhead cam, modular V-8 — an engine at the leading edge of automotive technology. The Touring Sedan is powered by a 210-horsepower version of the same V-8.

The car's functional technology includes speed-sensitive steering, four-wheel disc brakes, a rear driver's side air-bag. Anti-lock brakes and traction control come as standard equipment on the Touring Sedan and are optional on standard and LX Crown Victoria models. Additional options include a rear air-suspension and a passenger-side air-bag.

The Crown Victoria's interior includes an ergonomically designed instrument panel with gauges and controls that are easy to read and reach.

Ford Tempo For 1992 offers new V-6 performance models with exterior styling for the sporty GLS exterior refinements for the LX and GL and reduced NVH (noise, vibration and harshness) on all models.

New for '92 is a 140-horsepower, 4.0-liter V-6 engine with sequential electronic fuel injection (SEFI). Standard on 1992 LX and GL models, the V-6 adds a new performance dimension to the Tempo line.

The 1992 Tempos feature a new front end with a low cowled belt that provide a substantial glass area and excellent visibility. Power windows are available for the first time on all four-door, five-door and wagon models. An optional anti-lock brake system can be added to the four-wheel, four-disc brake system that is standard on LX, LX Sport or GT models. Inside the Probe LX driver's seat has manual adjustments for tilt, lumbar support and side-bolster. The Probe LX, LX Sport and GT also come equipped with a power steering column/instrument panel. All models can be coupled with a four-speed automatic transmission.

NEW CAR PREVIEW

Mercury banking on Sable's first major redesign ever

The introduction of the next generation Mercury Sable continues a series of new car introductions that has lead to sales success for Lincoln-Mercury Division, according to a top divi-

The successful introductions of the 1990 Lincoln Town Car, 1991 Mercury Tracer and Capri and the 1992 Mercury Grand Marquis increase its market share in a tough, competitive environment. He added that the new Sable, with its first major redesign, even will enable the division to build on that success.

Other Lincoln-Mercury highlights for 1992 include the addition of a 3.0-liter V-6 engine to selected Mercury Topaz models, standard electronic automatic overdrive transmission to the Town Car, and the 25th anniversary of the Mercury Cougar. Six Lincoln-Mercury carlines have driver-side air bag supplemental restraint systems available for 1992, and plans call for four of those carlines — Lincoln Town Car, Lincoln Continental, Mercury Grand Marquis and Mercury Sable to also have passenger-side air bags this year.

Some of the improvements for 1992, by carline, include:

Lincoln Town Car

A standard electronic automatic overdrive transmission to a 3.0-liter V-6 engine after the new model year begins. In addition, a passenger-side air bag supplemental restraint system joins the driver-side air bag as standard equipment.

Lincoln Continental

Adds a passenger-side air bag supplemental restraint system to the driver-side air bag as standard equipment. Receives double-sided galvanized body panels and front wheel lock.

Lincoln Mark VII

Receives a new style grille, as well as light gray lower bodyside panel on the LSC Series and a new door skin on the Bill Blass Designer Series.

Mercury Grand Marquis

Completely redesigned for 1992, featuring a modern, aerodynamic shape and an assortment of major functional improvements, while retaining its traditional roominess and comfort.

Mercury Cougar

The 25th anniversary of the Cougar will be commemorated later in the model year with a special anniversary edition.

Mercury Sable

Receives its first major design ever, with all-new exterior sheet metal, an updated version of the distinctive Sable light bar and an all-new interior.

Mercury Topaz

Added a 3.0-liter V-6 engine as standard equipment to the LTS and XRS models, and as an option on GS and LS models. Also receives an appearance package with new bumpers, new bodyside moldings and a new simulated light bar grille.

Mercury Tracer

This well-equipped, aerodynamically styled small car continues to offer world-class quality and "fun-to-drive" manners for 1992.

Mercury Capri

New exterior colors and interior door panel trim are added. Capri XR2 receives low-profile 15-inch tires and three-spoke aluminum wheels and an optional leather interior later in the year.

The Mercury Sable gets its first major redesign ever for 1992, and is even sleeker and more refined than its trendsetting predecessor. The new look is highlighted by all new exterior sheet metal and an updated version of the distinctive Sable front light bar. There is also a brand-new look inside, with a new inside, with a new instrument panel, door trim and seat design. The new Sable also has been refined for a significantly smoother, quieter ride with far better handling.

High blood pressure adds to the workload of the heart and arteries, which may contribute to stroke, heart attack, kidney failure and congestive heart failure. There is accumulating evidence that lowering blood pressure reduces the risk of stroke and coronary heart disease, according to the American Heart Association.

Chevrolet stressing anti-lock brake systems for '92 line up

WARREN, MICH. — Chevrolet leads the industry in anti-lock brakes and expects three out of four Chevy sold in America in the 1992 model year to have anti-lock brakes.

The standard engines are more efficient, striking a better balance between horsepower and fuel economy, for Chevy's most popular car lines, Cavalier and Corsica-Beretta, and for Corvete.

Cavalier — Gets a new 350-cubic-inch V8 engine which delivers 300 HP, the highest net horsepower for any production small-block in Chevrolet history. And better fuel economy than last year's standard engine, a sophisticated traction control strategy called Acceleration Slip Regulation (ASR) and ultra-high performance Goodyear tires.

Lumina — The Euro Sedan gets the optional 3.4 DOHC V6 engine with multi-port fuel injection and all Luminas have anti-lock brakes either available or standard.

Corsica-Beretta — Gets improved performance in its 2.2L MFI L4 standard engine with multi-port fuel injection plus optional V6. GM anticipates that Corsica will have the lowest manufacturer's suggested retail price of any compact car sold in America with anti-lock brakes and a driver's-side airbag as standard equipment.

Cavalier — The Z24 convertible returns. A more efficient and more powerful four-cylinder engine is offered on all VL and RS models, and anti-lock brakes are also standard on all models.

Summaries of each of Chevrolet's car lines follow.

Corvette for 1992 heralds a new era of world-class, all-weather performance for America's most famous sports car. New features for 1992 include a 350-cubic-inch V8 engine (LT1), a sophisticated traction control strategy called Acceleration Slip Regulation (ASR) and ultra-high performance tires.

The new LT1 ushers in a second generation of Chevy small-block power. It delivers 300 HP at 5000 RPM, the highest net horsepower for any production small-block in Chevrolet history, but with better fuel economy than last year's standard engine.

The LT1's performance equals or exceeds existing world-class V8 engine standards for mass, size, fuel consumption, emissions and cold starting.

The Corvette's ASR system is designed to work with the existing anti-lock brakes to provide improved acceleration and enhanced vehicle stability in all weather conditions.

New 350-cubic-inch GS-C high-performance tires are a Corvette exclusive for 1992. They have a tread pattern which delivers superb handling performance, heel and toe wear, cornering force and noise suppression.

Anti-lock brakes and a driver's side airbag are standard.

Coupe continues to be offered as a coupe or a convertible; the limited production ZR-1 performance package is available only on the coupe.

The exterior, leather interiors and convertible top have new colors.

The Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price begins at $33,635.

Lumina refinements for '92 include an optional 3.4 DOHC V6 engine with multi-port fuel injection on the Lumina Euro sedan and availability of anti-lock brakes on all models.

The engine comes with 4-speed electronic transmission, 4-wheel disc brakes, a 4-speed automatic transmission and sport suspension.

Models are coupes, sedans or APV mini-vans (truck release).

The MSRP for Lumina car models begins at $14,995.

Corsica has a refined engine and anti-lock brakes for all '92 models.

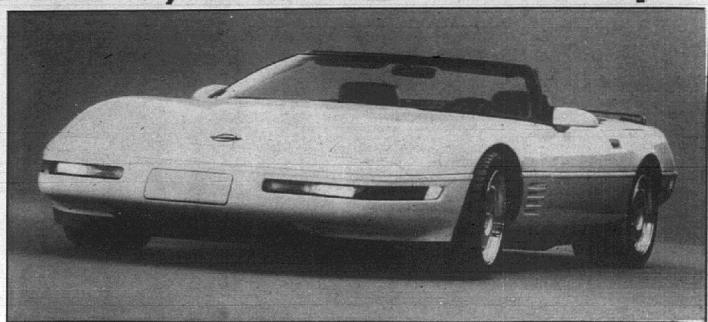

The standard 2.2L MFI L4 engine delivers an additional 15 HP and 10 more lb.-ft. of torque than its predecessor and increases fuel economy with the manual transmission.

The addition of a torque axis engine mounting system and a quarter wave tuner significantly reduces engine vibration and noise.

The aggressive 3.1L MFI V6 engine is now optional on all models and the 2.2L MFI L4 is standard on the G7. Anti-lock brakes (ABS VI) is now standard equipment.

Standard equipment also includes a driver's-side airbag.

Chevrolet's 1992 Geo Storm has a new 1.8 L 140-HP engine, wing-type spoiler and round fog lamps for the uplevel GSi model, left. All models have a restyled front end, like the standard coupe at right, with quad halogen headlamps, new rear appearance, flush-mounted tinted glass, aero-style full wheel covers and new exterior colors.

Chevrolet's Geo gears up for sales record

As it approaches its fifth birthday, Chevrolet's Geo lineup of import-inspired vehicles is expected to set sales records in 1992.

Geo vehicles - three of which are built in North America - can be found at more than 4,000 convenient dealerships across the country.

Details of each member of the diverse Geo lineup follow.

STORM for 1992 has a new 1.8L MPFI 16-valve 4-cylinder engine for the uplevel GSi model, updated exterior appearance and new interior materials.

The new engine - standard equipment on the GSi - produces 140 HP, 10 HP more than the engine it replaces. It has been engineered to deliver outstanding power at higher engine speeds and improved low-end torque.

All three 1992 Storms - coupe, GSi and hatchback - have a restyled front end with mini-quad halogen headlamps, new rear fascia appearance, flush-mounted tinted glass and aero-style full wheel covers. The GSi model adds to that a new wing-type spoiler and round fog lamps. New exterior colors include French blue mica and Bonneville blue mica.

Inside, all models have new seat fabric and detailing.

Storm's Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price (MSRP) begins at $11,330.

TRACKER sports several refinements for 1992: an optional automatic transmission for the 2WD model, a new instrument panel, a new center console with color-keyed inserts, cloth bolsters, a new charcoal gray interior color and an optional tilt steering column.

The Tracker's lineup consists of a 3WD convertible, a 4WD convertible and a 4WD hardtop. An LSi appearance package is optional on 4WD models and has a new fabric treatment.

The Tracker's powerplant is a 1.8L L4 SOHC engine with electronic fuel injection. A 5-speed manual transmission is standard on all models and a 3-speed automatic transmission is optional.

Standard features also include rear-wheel anti-lock brakes, reclining front bucket seats, analog instrumentation, stowage trays and a trip odometer. All Tracker models have Scotchgard Fabric Protector (TM) for seats and door panels.

Tracker's MSRP begins at $9,695.

METRO for 1992 features new front and rear fascia styling, a distinctive full-width taillamp appearance, new wheel appearance and new interior appointments.

Metros also sport new 12-inch full wheel covers (13-inch on the Metro convertible LSi), new instrument panel and new seat fabric. The LSi package adds a tachometer, visor vanity mirrors for the driver and passenger and a locking glove box.

The Metro lineup includes the XFi fuel-economy leader, 2-door hatchback coupe and 4-door hatchback sedan, and a 2-door convertible. Two new levels are available on the 2-door hatchback coupe and the 4-door hatchback sedan: standard and LSi. All Metro convertibles are equipped exclusively with the 1992 as the most affordable two-seat drop-top in the U.S.

All Metros are powered by a 1.6L 3-cylinder SOHC engine with electronic fuel injection. Standard equipment also includes a 5-speed manual transmission, intermittent wipers and Scotchgard Fabric Protector (TM).

Metro's MSRP begins at $6,995.

PRIZM continues in '92 as a fine front-wheel-drive family sedan that wins rave reviews for its 5-passenger accommodations, interior comfort and spirited performance.

Four new exterior colors are available for 1992: gulfstream teal, quicksilver, crystalrose and crimson clover. Maroon is now available for the standard Prizm's interior.

The Prizm lineup consists of a 4-door sedan available in standard or uplevel LSi trim or the sporty GSi which includes a high-output version of the 1.6L engine. The hatchback has been discontinued.

All Prizms have a 1.6L 16-valve DOHC engine with port fuel injection. Standard equipment also includes a 5-speed manual transmission, manual rack-and-pinion steering, McPherson front suspension with coil spring front and rear suspension and power front-disc/rear-drum brakes. The standard Prizm rides on 13-inch wheels and all-season steel-belted radials.

Prizm's MSRP begins at $10,125.

Ford/Mercury offers bumper-to-bumper coverage

A new bumper-to-bumper warranty will cover 1992 Ford and Mercury vehicles, or trim for three years or 36,000 miles, with no deductible. Lincoln customers will continue to receive bumper-to-bumper coverage for four years or 50,000 miles, with no deductible.

Additionally, the company has increased its service parts warranty coverage for Ford, Lincoln and Mercury vehicles, or trim for four years or 12,000 miles for Ford, Lincoln and Mercury vehicles, or car or light truck, effective January 1, 1992.

The service parts will cover the entire vehicle for three years or 36,000 miles including steering and suspension, electronics and power options. Normal wear and maintenance items, such as wiper blades, brake pads, external light bulbs, oil changes and lubrication will remain the owner's responsibility. Tires will continue to be covered by their manufacturer's warranty.

The success of the Lincoln plan - introduced last year - plus additional market research indicates that customers expect complete car coverage that is easy-to-understand.

Ford's corrosion protection warranty continues for six years or 100,000 miles. The emissions warranty also continues unchanged at five years, or 50,000 miles.

Previously, all Ford and Mercury vehicles carried a basic coverage of 12 months or 12,000 miles.

The powertrain warranty provided four years or 50,000 miles coverage, with a $50 deductible per repair visit.

The new Ford Crown Victoria and Mercury Grand Marquis models purchased prior to this announcement will have a combination of both the new and previous coverages. The Crown Victoria and Grand Marquis were introduced in the first quarter of 1991.

Ford offers a full-line of Extended Service Plan (ESP) contracts to complement the new

THE new Subaru SVX features sports-car-like performance in a sumptuous, distinctive and safe package, which marks the company's entry into the performance luxury coupe market.

The Subaru SVX provides class-leading performance thanks to its 230-horsepower, horizontally-opposed, 3.3-liter six-cylinder engine, full-time all-wheel drive, fully-independent suspension, four-wheel disc brakes with anti-lock (AS), 225/50 VR 16 performance tires and a distinctive wind-cheating shape.

LUXURY FEATURES include plush seats for four, power windows (including remote up/down for the driver), power mirrors, power locks with an integrated security system (both controlled by an infrared-remote transmitter), automatic climate control system, 30-Watt audio system and a sophisticated electronic four-speed automatic transmission.

Deciding the discriminating driver is what the performance luxury coupe market is all about.

Meeting these needs means providing all of the dynamic and comfort features in a unique shape.

THE SUBARU SVX began with a design study by Giorgio Giugiaro, world renowned for his facility to produce stylish, yet efficient vehicles.

Giugiaro's design, very similar to the production version, evoked "classic" exotic-car styling: low, wide proportions with an elongated front and short tail.

Designers at AM General, the parent company, refined the shape for production purposes, yet did not compromise the original's aerodynamics. As a result, the Subaru SVX boasts a class-leading 0.29 cd.

Innovations in manufacturing and window design allowed for the "glass to glass" canopy effect, which provides more than aesthetic benefits.

Bonding the glass over the roof pillars adds rigidity to the body structure, and utilization of the "window in window" system allows for large door openings yet windows which open completely.

THE CAR'S AERODYNAMICS coupled with the "window in window" design also provide optimum aerodynamics in virtually all weather without the elements intruding on the occupants.

In addition, the large canopy greenhouse provides a light, airy cabin, something often missing in a luxury coupe design.

The jet-fighter-like feel of the glass canopy design carries into the Subaru SVX.

THE DRIVER AND front passenger are surrounded, without being crowded, by the flow of door armrests into the dash, around and into the center console.

Conveniently-positioned controls are mandatory in the luxury coupe class, so the primary big-rig features and heavy-duty components than any competitor, including an all-wheel drive, an exclusive standard intercooler, a proven turbocharger, open direct cylinder injection, the largest crankshaft and connecting rods in the industry, gear-driven components and a heat exchanger.

Both Ram Pickup and Dakota feature new heavy-duty five-speed manual transmissions specifically for each truck line.

In addition, both transmissions allow smoother application of power and feature an overdrive fifth gear for improved highway fuel economy.

The Dodge Dakota offers more full-size performance in a mid-size pickup. Midsize Dakota is the only truck in its class to offer full-size pickup features at compact truck prices.

With a larger frame, longer wheelbase and wider track than compact pickups, Dakota has the work versatility and smoother ride of a full-size pickup, plus the maneuverability and good fuel economy of a compact pickup.

The result is a 29 percent reduction in engine compentency, less weight, tighter sealing, reduced maintenance and long life, increased engine power, economy and reliability.

With 400 pound-feet of torque at 1,750 rpm, the 5.9-liter Cummins intercooled Turbo Diesel is the highest torque of any diesel engine available in a pickup.

Engineered specifically for turbocharging and heavy-duty truck use, the Cummins intercooled Turbo Diesel has more power and torque than competitive compact pickup.

Customer-Preferred Advantage Packages are packages of valuable options that allow a customer to equip a Ram Pickup the way he likes it, while saving money with big discounts.

Whether it's the Super LE package that gives a MAGNUM V8 automatic transmission and air conditioning at no charge, or the Work Package, an industry item like a 30-gallon fuel tank and rear stop bumper, Dodge offers a truck to suit special needs at a price that's right.

Both Ram Pickup and Dakota feature new heavy-duty five-speed manual transmissions specifically for each truck line.

In addition, both transmissions allow smoother application of power and feature an overdrive fifth gear for improved highway fuel economy.

The Dodge Dakota offers more full-size performance in a mid-size pickup. Midsize Dakota is the only truck in its class to offer full-size pickup features at compact truck prices.

With a larger frame, longer wheelbase and wider track than compact pickups, Dakota has the work versatility and smoother ride of a full-size pickup, plus the maneuverability and good fuel economy of a compact pickup.

Dodge Ram's standard 5.9-liter engine features multipoint fuel injection for hard-working horsepower and torque with excellent fuel economy. A five-speed transmission with overdrive is also standard.

Dodge Ram 50 hauls big loads with a standard payload of 1,500 pounds. Dodge Power Ram 30 has a standard payload of 1,800 pounds. And a full load rating of 2,300 pounds is available on the Ram 50.

Sid plates and an independent front torsion-bar suspension are standard to help the Dodge Power Ram 50 take on rough four-wheel-drive terrain.

Automatic transmission, front wheel drive, are standard on Power Ram 50, so the driver can shift from two-wheel drive to four-wheel drive without leaving the cab.

ST. LOUIS CELEBS

Dennis Michael Reagan
Theater executive

Harry Hamm

Dennis Michael Reagan was born on Sept. 4, 1952 in Richmond Heights and raised in the Holly Hills area of south St. Louis. He and his wife, Michael, a part-time office manager at Peake-Dunn, live in south St. Louis. They have three children: John, 5; Maggie, 3, and Amy. Reagan's mother, Marilyn, lives in south St. Louis; his father is deceased. He attended Our Lady of Sorrows grade school, Bishop Dubourg High School and the University of St. Louis in 1974. He became the youngest chief executive officer in the 73-year history of the Municipal Opera in September when he replaced an ailing Bill Culver.

Occupation: General manager and CEO of the Muny. He started working part time on the cleaning crew at the theater in 1968 while he was in high school. He became a full-time worker in 1970 as an all-purpose office worker and driver for Muny headliners. He left the theater in 1974 but was coaxed back in 1976 by Culver, who began grooming him for the general manager's job.

The people who have influenced me the most are: Bill Culver, who offered me the opportunity to work my way up through the ranks; and my mother, Marilyn, who always believed in me.

The most enjoyable part of my work is: "Getting things to pull together and work. I know that may not sound like it, but for me, watching the Muny's people pull it all together is a thrill."

Situations during a show when something won't work right or we have a power failure or high winds, has always been a source of pride for me. It's remarkable to see, but unfortunately, it's something the Muny patrons are hardly ever aware of."

What's the best part of working for the Muny? Joe Namath, when he did "Little Abner" at the Muny in 1989. He might have been called Broadway Joe, but in person he was very humble. His knees were so busted up from playing football that he had to wear braces. He was in constant pain, but he never let it affect his work.

The most demanding star I've worked with was: "Yul Brynner. It wasn't that he caused a lot of trouble, but when he first did 'The King and I' at the Muny all his perks were specifically listed in his contract and had to be upheld to the letter. For instance, we had to completely redecorate the dressing room according to the colors and type of fabric he wanted."

The hardest thing about the Muny: "Is doing all your shows outdoors. Besides rain outs, the elements year-round just beat up the exposed portions of the theater. But if it weren't outdoors, it would be great."

In my new position, I feel most challenged by: "The need to increase our single-tickets sales. Our subscriber base isn't a problem. But the economy and local competition we face, like (the) Riverport (Amphitheater in Maryland Heights), have caused our single-ticket sales to be off between 10 and 15 percent of what they should be."
